| Title | Review a model of mental health service delivery in an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander community service. | | |
| Description | The role of a psychiatrist working in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander mental health often goes beyond clinical work and involves service improvement or development. As such, the trainee needs to be able to evaluate mental health service delivery in an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander population/community incorporating knowledge of other services and feedback from consumers and other stakeholders. The trainee can contextualise this information within an understanding of the culture and history of the Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander population/community and the respective socioeconomic circumstances. They can consider issues of resource availability, organisations involved, clinician skill sets and the barriers to consumer access. From this evaluation, the trainee can make recommendations for improvement and how this can be achieved. | | |

Please refer to the EPA handbook’s preamble for a more detailed description of the EPA assessment process. The corresponding EPA contains the knowledge, skills and attitude that must be demonstrated by the trainee in order to be entrusted with this activity.
